Resume

OBJECTIVE

To obtain a position where I can use my experience as a newsroom leader, editor and multimedia producer to engage audiences with relevant content.

QUALIFICATIONS

I am currently the Director of Interactive Media for The Detroit News where I lead efforts to enhance the digital delivery of news and information. I have presided over the integration of the print and web news teams, as well as developing the news operation's social media strategy. Previously, I was the Associate Managing Editor for Multimedia and the Associate Managing Editor for Photography for the Chicago Tribune. I was the first person at the Tribune to have held both A.M.E. positions.

I have extensive experience in online team leadership, multimedia production and audience engagement through social media. My career in journalism has spanned the transition from analog to digital news delivery and the advent and development of multimedia storytelling manifested in projects as diverse as award winning multimedia news projects, a photo book, a traveling photo exhibit, contributions to scholarly articles, and a documentary film, as well as traditional news venues.

Additionally, I have lectured nationally and internationally on multimedia, newsroom convergence and audience engagement, developing lecture series and study plans for journalists.

MILESTONES

I brokered a co-production partnership between the Chicago Tribune and Kartemquin Films that resulted in the award winning documentary, At the Death House Door. The film is a compelling, emotional documentary based on the Tribune's investigative reporting about the wrongful execution of Carlos DeLuna.

NAA Digital Edge award - Most Innovative Multimedia Storytelling: A Tank of Gas, A World of Trouble, which took users on an oil safari with video and other multimedia elements illustrating the declining world oil supply. The multimedia project, which I managed, took the innovative approach of tracking the gas sold at a suburban gas station back to its sources at conflict zones around the world.

Online News Association Award for Service Journalism: The Mercury Menace. This interactive web presentation examined how toxic mercury enters the food chain through large fish. The site featured an interactive mercury calculator that allowed users to enter their weight to calculate the amount of different types of fish that could be safely consumed.

Chicago/Midwest Emmy for Outstanding Achievement for Documentary Programs – Documentary of Historic Significance. The City's Pastime was a one-hour documentary that explored the rich history of baseball in Chicago. The program, which was shot and edited by my video production team, aired on cable and public television.

When Evil Struck America was packaged as a CD-ROM time capsule distributed to more than 1 million subscribers on the first anniversary of the Sept. 11, 2001, World Trade Center attacks. Interactive and easy to navigate, it boosted single-day street sales of the newspaper by 100,000. I was responsible for the project's conceptualization and management of the design, production and distribution.

Americanos: Latino Life in the United States. Photo editor for this first of its kind photo book that documented the contribution of Latinos to the culture of the United States. The project included a film for HBO and a traveling exhibit through the Smithsonian Institution.
